

THE "OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

(Weekly Review of National Affairs)
By M. McNEIL

Ottawa, July 17.—The capital of the Dominion is immeasurably pleased that the swelling tide of American intervention in the war of freedom is now lapping the shores of Iceland. What will result from the recent handling of marines and bluejackets in Iceland and the setting up of naval bases by the United States fleet on that North Atlantic island is not considered here as merely a matter of conjecture. Not only is the fan of hemispheric defence unfolded still further into the Atlantic, invading waters designated by the Nazis as a war zone, but it means the task of delivering war equipment from this continent to Europe is being made more eased and more effective. There will of course be plenty of war still for the British and the Canadian navy in the Atlantic, but the army of the British will be the major task but a new and vigilant eye is trained on the sea-lanes of the North Atlantic and the people of British have received in practical form renewed assurance that the Americans intend to see that their material aid to Britain will be put into the British shores. The attitude of the United States and the practical steps that country takes in assisting the cause of freedom move forward under their own momentum. Neither the United Kingdom or Canada interfere. Canadians everywhere concur in the expectation of Prime Minister Churchill that "the British and United States naval forces may find it advantageous to assist each other in guarding the supply lines between British, Ireland and the United States." It remains, however, for the Americans to show whether they intend to control and guard the sea-lanes of the North Atlantic from their new vantage point in Iceland will assume. One thing is certain. The strategic situation of garriens from the United States in Iceland makes the island more secure against possible Nazi attack. If Iceland were in the hands of the enemy it would be a very dangerous point of attack on the vital supply lines from North America to Britain. In these days of desperate struggle there is not time for complacency. The eyes of all have to be set on the goal of victory, but in the days to come Canadians will undoubtedly feel justifiable satisfaction in the part that Canada has been playing in the gradual process of welding together in a common purpose the two great English speaking democracies on whose shoulders rests the future of the world.

Sales of products of the farm and orchard to Britain have been much in the public eye in the past few days. The bacon board at Ottawa has been exercised over the business situation. They are determined that Canadian bacon producers will not fall down on their commitments to Britain. The British contract calls for the delivery of 425 million pounds of bacon before the end of October. More than half of this amount had been delivered by the end of June, but there is still a large part of the contract to be filled. One of the troubles has been that on account of rising prices across the border there has been an increase in hog exports to the United States. This has been particularly true in the far west. Hog grading in Canada shows an increase in the first six months of this year of about 25 per cent over the same months of 1940 but there isn't a prospect of a surplus enough to supply both the British and United States markets. An appeal was made some time ago to cut down domestic consumption of bacon and ham by half. Prices were raised on May first by $1.00 an increase assumed by the British government. There was a further increase of 75 cents on May 30th and a similar increase on June 24th, both of these price lifts being assumed by the Canadian government. Now there is the probability of another increase. There is a clear challenge to the whole bacon industry not to let the 20th century Canadian bacon producer be the victim of a war. A conference is now in session in Washington which may result in some "joint program" by Canada, United States and Britain on the bacon situation.

Apple groves in the Annapolis Valley in Nova Scotia have been greatly increased after the last year's losses they have undergone since the war began, by the tentative sale of about 15,000,000 pounds of dried apples to the British for military purposes, methods of evaporation have produced

Types of dried fruits which have pleased the British palate. The order which will take care of about one million barrels of fresh apples or approximately two thirds the year's crop will carry the industry for the year.

As an international grain conference at Washington, called by the American government, representatives of the four great grain exporting countries, Canada, United States, Australia and Argentina are looking for light on the world wheat situation. The combined wheat surplus in the bins of the four countries is over 1,100,000,000 bushels and with new crops in the northern hemisphere promises to be still higher. It presents a dark picture. There is likely to be some speculation on the possible demand for wheat from Russia if it needs the Ukraine are lost or destroyed in the war in any large measure. What these countries are seeking with the aid of British representatives is a common policy to alleviate the present glut on the market and a joint approach to the great problem of relief in ravaged countries after the war is over.

The labor department is just now earnestly engaged in trying to find a peaceful and immediate solution to the coal mining disputes in Cape Breton which have resulted in the curtailment of coal production. It is claimed that results are promising. The department has also through a variety of agencies been explaining to the country at large the advantages which would accrue from the widespread adoption of the principle of wage adjustment to meet increased costs of living.

WHAT'S DE ANSAH?

An old darty approached the minister. "Palson, huh," he said, "Ah wants you to pray for me." "All right, Hantus. What's wrong?" "Fish. Ah's got a floating kilney-uh." "But, Hantus," replied the minister, "I can't pray for physical things like that. I only pray for spiritual things." "You'll den pray for a floatin' kilney?" "Den how can you pray for that Sunday fo' the loose livahs?"

GASOLINE RESTRICTIONS

The Dominion Government has issued fairly drastic restrictions about the sale of gasoline. No person will be able to buy gas before 7 a.m. nor after 7 p.m. on any week day, and not at all on Sunday. The reason is to conserve all possible gas for war purposes. If this restriction does not have enough for war purposes—gas rationing will be called into effect. We are at war.

A. J. Hooke, M. L. A. Gives Address On Economic Reform

Mr. A. J. Hooke, Chairman of the Social Credit Board gave an interesting address on the necessity for Economic Reform in Harper's Theatre Monday evening, July 21st.

Price increases in per gallon commencing Wednesday, July 16th.

It would have been better had he shown a more reasonable time, as the farmers are busy in their fields and further, people are not inclined to go to lectures during pleasant weather—notwithstanding the theatre was very comfortably cool. Hence the attendance of adults was very small. The speaker said there are two kinds of Democracy—Political and Economic. The former we have—it is Economic Democracy we must strive for with an all out effort to right the unjust conditions existing.

The men overseas who are fighting to maintain political democracy must on their return be faced with failure to secure a comfortable livelihood, and it is for us at home to strive to bring about this equitable economic democracy. Mr. Hooke quoted figures to prove the "noose around the neck" caused by interest.

Mr. Hooke is a pleasant, easy to follow speaker. There was no time given for question period. Mr. S. McDonald was chairman and Mr. W. S. McNell operated the lantern.

Lions Hold Carnival Day All Round Successful Affair

A large and enthusiastic crowd turned out to the Lions' picnic day held here Wednesday afternoon in Lambert Park, and watched the running off of the various events. From the time the softball tournament started until the conclusion of the final game there was interest and excitement for everybody. The Children's Sports provided a highlight of sportsmanship as the various races came up, and the youngsters gave their all in every event. One or two of the events had to be deleted as the sports were cutting into the time of finishing Contest.

The crowd were all on hand at the judging of the bathing beauties and interest and speculation ran high among them. The Judges had a hard job to pick a winner, and took quite some time. Queen of the contest was Elaine Sorensen, and runners up were Edna Hartnell, and Joyce Woolfite. The Judges were three ladies from out of town. An interesting addition to this was a bathing beauty of the "day minutes" type. Mrs. F. Hilton was the beauty inside.

The Auction Sale, presided over by General George MacLean, was another feature of the day, and bidding and bidding provided more than usual enthusiasm for the onlookers. What with Dr. Clifton running around in a ten gallon hat, and other items in the same vein, it was one of the most interesting sales yet held.

With a spectacular home run in the sixth inning, breaking a 5-5 tie, Ralph Martin clinched the title of the Softball tournament for Strathmore. The game had been tied in the Memorial. The game was played in the Strathmore. The game was played in the Strathmore. The game was played in the Strathmore.

ELK ISLAND NATIONAL PARK

Elk Island National Park is closely linked with the saving of the plains buffalo from possible extinction for here is the last place where the last of buffalo purchased by the Dominion Government from Michael Pabo, the Montana rancher. Later the main herd was killed off by the Indians but a few dozen perhaps too wild to be rounded a peacefully were left at Elk Island. From this vigorous stock has grown the finest herd of plains buffalo on the North American continent, and since the closing of Wainwright as an animal park, Elk Island has become the home of Canada's national buffalo herd. Besides the buffalo which now number over 1,200, the park contains about 500 elk and a number of moose and deer. It is also regarded as one of the important bird sanctuaries in Western Canada. In early summer the lake shores are covered with waterfowl and more than 200 species including local and migratory birds have been observed within the park's boundaries.

Although Elk Island Park was originally established as a wild animal preserve for the elk and mule deer of the region it has now become a popular vacation area. Its numerous lakes surrounded by rolling, well wooded country attract thousands of visitors from all over the province. The park numbered nearly 50,000. It is only about an hour's run from the city of Edmonton and is accessible either by road or by air.

TOWN COUNCIL

The agenda at the Council meeting on Tuesday was rather short, and Council finished the town's business unusually early. Owing to the excessive heat, more especially in a second story room, most of the councillors were more than glad to escape.

One of the longest discussions of the evening took place over the side walk problem, and after probing about after lunch it was decided until the next meeting, when the decision will be fully approved, to create the block of sidewalk stretching from Woolfite's to Van Tighem's street on Sixth Street. As regards work on the block running past the Curling House will be rebuilt with four foot boards, under contract to Dr. J. Jones. Tenders for the concrete will be called for and noted on at the next meeting.

One of the properties put up for tax sale has been redeemed. A proposal was received from J. F. Welch asking that the Town convert the large space between the rear of his shop to the street. The council went down as a committee to see what could be done, and what it would likely cost, and will defer decision until later, mainly at Mr. Welch's suggestion.

Taxes are coming in well, the financial statement revealed. The Bank loan has been paid off, and there is a very favorable balance for so early a period in the tax year. The matter of supplying some of the greater buildings by the Town was deferred until the first of November, when it was felt they would be more profitable.

Application was received from the crew at work on the west highway to use the pump-house to fill the water wagon used for work on the road. There is one engine belonging to the construction outfit, but it is working on the east highway, and would inconvenience the other crew by moving it. Permission was granted on the basis that the pump be used by one man only, who would be responsible for its maintenance.

Where Fairways Meet the Sea

"The golfer who occasionally substitutes his clubs for fishing tackle, who enjoys a brisk walk out on the links during an invigorating Atlantic breeze or soothing sun-bath, who likes before a sailing craft, and has a weakness for sea-food, can easily all these things, and other vacation whims as well, at the beautiful and convenient hotel at Andrews-by-the-Sea in old New Brunswick.

Open this year from June 28 to September 2 the charming Canada Pacific hotel is enjoying one of the most successful seasons in its history. Tourists who formerly visited Europe in quest of vacation pleasures have found parts of the New Brunswick countryside a worthy reproduction of the Old Country. The sea-girt St. Andrews golf course as thrilling as its famous Scottish namesake, and sheltered by waters as inviting as the Atlantic.

Summer life at the Algonquin Hotel is a "Who's Who in Golfing".

Deep-sea fishing for cod, mackerel and haddock is available daily. The hotel's dock, a few miles distant. Other attractions include bathing, motoring, cycling and boat excursions to nearby Caples.

At high tide for the bathers' enjoyment, the hotel has a swimming pool.

No golfer who takes his game seriously would tour the Maritime without a visit to St. Andrews. Inspired by the bracing tang of the sea, velvety greens of the links.

"NEWS FROM HOME"

Niece Of T. M. Weir Writes Of Conditions In Scotland

Christmas, and we employ ourselves here sending chocolates and biscuits, as the refugees there ate up everything in the house.

That news from home is a welcome as flowers in spring there can be no question. It is now nearing thirty years since I left the old sod, and I am happy to say that during that long period I have never been without news from home.

Recently I had the most interesting letter from a niece in Dundee, Scotland. The portion of which I am sure will interest readers to the "Standard." My niece writes—"Well, we are still in the land of the living, the place of hope, facing all the various difficulties with a smile, although up to now we have been nothing to grumble about. We have had no air raid warning to speak of, wonderful sound" since New Year's Day (letter written 23rd January, but defaced) which only lasted for ten minutes before the attack began. It was a week of November. However, we have one of the famous Anderson Shelters built at the foot of the garden and we are all well and happy (on the other waiting note). So far we have had no "cards" dropped near us except one, which although it sounded very odd was actually two miles away, and certainly did some damage, killing three people, but as I have already said very few things have gone on before, although it is certainly a case of days perhaps it is spoken for of our daily life."

My niece with friends in Portsmouth spent the last three weeks before, they had no electricity and no gas, but any number of not-too-pleasant. My niece adds—"Howard had to stand in a queue for half an hour for some sweets for

One does not make friends, one recognizes them.

Loss of life in bombed England actually is less than in peacetime, according to James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago Chapter of the American Red Cross. "By taking automobiles off the highways, by exercising caution in the home and in industry, by improving diet, by safeguarding self and community from the threats of epidemics through sanitation, vaccination and immunization the English are saving more lives than their enemies are able to take."

A Jewish merchant was dying, and Momma, his daughter and three sons at the bedside saying the Kaddish. Finally Momma bent over her departing spouse and sobbed. "Can you hear, poppa? We are all here—all your daughters and sons and old Momma, praying for you."

"Is Milton here?" whispered the dying man.
"Yes, poppa."
"Is Abe here?"
"Yes, poppa."
"Is Moe here?"
"Yes, poppa."
With a scream of anguish poppa sat up in bed. "Then who in Hell's looking after the store?"

"The United States must be strong if our way of life is to be maintained and for our national policy we as a nation have adopted the motto of the Boy Scouts—'The prepared.'—Irene silent Roosevelt.

58 Bravery Awards For British Scouts—

During the present war 58 British Boy Scouts and five have been Mentioned in Despatches. The list includes one V. C., one George Cross and six George Medals. The first Civil Defence award was won by a Boy Scout.

A Scout and Guide Mobile Tea Car— A mobile tea car was purchased by the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides of Burton, England, and presented to the Y. M. C. A. The tea car will serve men of the fighting forces stationed in the Burton High Park district.

Flyer Ace Was a Boy Scout—

Flight Sergeant Laurie Freese, R. A. F., recently killed in action, described as a coming "ace," was a Boy Scout of the 4th Hiford Troop. He was a member of a famous fighter squadron that recently brought down its 600th German plane.

Nazis Abolish Dutch Boy Scouts—

The Boy Scouts of Holland, like the other countries invaded by the Germans, have been banned by the Nazis. The leader of the Hitler Jugend has announced that "such organizations as the Boy Scouts and the Girl will have to disappear, and ultimately all Dutch youth organizations must follow the National-Socialist Movement."

Under The Street Lamp

On their first day at Sarcee, Charlie and Andy Scott, like so many others, were having a difficult time trying to understand what the drill instructor was barking at them.

When the instructor gave an extra-involved order, Andy whistled:

"Ere, Charlie, what did 'e say?"

"Ain't got the least idea," replied Charlie, "but we've got to do it."

"Good morning. This is Hullett. Crafting, Studge, Gowie, and Scarrow."

"Oh, good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning."

Two young ladies were behind a counter eating peanuts. Most of the peanuts had single kernels. Finally one of the pair yelled: "Oh, I've got twins!" having discovered two kernels in the shell. The entire staff of the store stood breathless for about three minutes.

A man is a quaint person who thinks that because a girl has a fine set of ankles she has a soul, a mind and can cook a good steak.

"Dear Madam," wrote the Heart Throb columnist to an inquiring parent. "You say you have been trying to keep your daughter home by hiding her clothes. I am afraid you haven't been around much. Try hiding her lipstick and nail polish."

Mrs. Hughes: "I'll bet you're peeved about the laundry not being done."
Spencer: "Yes, it makes me feel all out of sorts."

On going into the cowshed one morning, Mr Farmer was greatly surprised to see a new hand fresh from the city, giving one of the cows a drink from the milking pail.

"What are you doing that for?" he demanded.

"Well," explained the hand, "the milk seemed pretty thin to me, so I thought I'd better put it through the process again."

GENERAL McNAUGHTON PRAISES LOW SLUNG CARRIERS

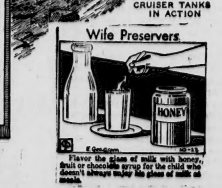

Past, low-slung Universal Carriers, with a speed of 50 miles per hour over rough terrain and protected against small arms fire by armour-plate, form part of Canada's contribution to the modern way of waging war in mechanized vehicles.
Improvements and adaptations made in the Dominion have turned what formerly were scouting and light machine gun carriers into formidable armoured fighting vehicles.
Production of Universal Carriers in Canada now is sufficient to fill all Canadian requirements and the British Government is taking large quantities of these powerful tracked vehicles that can "turn on a dime," roar up steep hills or leap over small ditches with ease.

this week end from Lethbridge. Her visit for a three weeks holiday with her parents.

TROUT PROOF ROAD
Dustin promoters have long emphasized the importance of a "trout route" through Alberta.

Such a route would connect with the Jasper and Banff national parks.
At present this route is disrupted with the exception of the stretch between Edmonton and Jasper.

Some 20 miles of this section have been made dust-proof but the work should be extended so that the whole route would be surfaced in this way.

Obviously valuable property could be given the fact that a dust-proof "circle route" was available to motorists in Alberta, linking with Canada's two largest national parks.

Demolition bombs range in weight from 50 to 5,000 pounds.

Construction of the British Houses of Parliament required 20 years.

ed to an address by Squadron Leader
A. C. Hewitt, M.C., just returned from the theatre of war, when I took the opportunity of asking him how things had fared in the blitzkrieg. He answered not too bad, but that Aberdeen, sixty miles North, had not got off so easily.

LYALTA

LYALTA RED CROSS TEA

The Strawberry Tea held at the home of Mrs Lawson Friday afternoon July 14th was a decided success both socially and financially. Small tables were set out under the trees at which delicious refreshments were served.
During the afternoon four games of "Treasure Hunt" were played which caused much merriment. Tea cup reading by Mrs MacDonell added much fun and entertainment. About sixty ladies attended and the Red Cross netted $17.55. Winners in the Treasure Contest were Mrs Hyde, Mr Heltgen of Strathmore and Mrs Sugden of Cheate. Thanks to Mrs Lawson for the beautiful spot, to Mrs Norval for donating the strawberries and to all the ladies who assisted in supplying and serving the lunch.
Thanks also to all the ladies who attended to make the event the success that it was.

The Lyalta Ball Team played ball at the Sports at Nightingale July 4th.
A number of young folk attended the dance afterwards.

The Lyalta Girls Club met at the home of Mrs F. Cowell July 15th.

The next Red Cross meeting will be held Thursday, July 17th.

WHEAT BONUS
TO BE HEAVY

Some 42,400 Alberta farmers have made application for the federal government wheat acreage reduction bonus, which may reach the figure of $11 million in this province. This information was disclosed by R. L. Gray, director of the bonus scheme for the prairie provinces.

Farmers to obtain their bonuses should go to their municipal secretaries and complete their final form claiming. A sworn statement of seeded acreage is required. Unless complications arise, bonus cheques should be out to the farmer within 10 days after the final claim has been completed.

Mr Gray said there is no cutoff date in respect to farmers making out the final claims form. If desired a farmer could let this stand over until fall.

Contrary to earlier statements, bonus claims must be based on actual seeding and cannot be switched to something else if the seeded acreage is destroyed or hailed out and later summer-fallowed. —Budget.
